

Preserving the Environment

At Visonic, we consider safeguarding the environment as one of our prime values. This includes reducing as much as possible the use of consumable natural resources and minimizing the negative environmental impact of business activities, development and production and of the products themselves during the entire product lifecycle.

In order to achieve these goals, Visonic acts according to the following principles:

- Meet the relevant environmental legal and professional standards that the company has set out for itself.
- Set measurable environmental, goals and milestones and strive to continuously improve performance in terms of environmental preservation and minimization of the environmental impact of our activities and products.
- Encourage our suppliers and subcontractors to respect the environment.
- Periodically examine our environmental protection management mechanisms and their implementation.
- Make this policy widely known among all employees and strengthen their awareness of the importance of environmental responsibility and of Visonic's activities in this field.
